BLACK WOMEN - A DOMINANT ANTI-VIOLENCE FORCE

A few generations ago, Black women were considered, in a societal sense, to be at the bottom of the rung. They were seemingly treated with much less respect than black/white men and white women.

In fact, her sufferings were never fully highlighted throughout the annals of history. Perhaps the tribulations of the Black woman were never fully elucidated due to her perceived stoic attitude towards hardships and her resilience throughout the ages.

It should be noted that while Black men were dying in wars, at the hands of colonial and slavery powers, it was the Black woman who kept the family together creating a matriarchal society. Those of us from Jamaica can testify to this occurrence.

Today black women are demanding the same quality of life, and have afforded other females to come to the fore with diverse skills and life experiences. The black woman must be viewed as the most resilient facet of any society based on her ordeals and achievements throughout the ages. The fact that she is triumphant in this generation is a testimony to her perseverance.

Once found only where menial work was available, black women have ascended to the professional-managerial class and any good research will conclude that she is the most improved facet of the society where university enrolment, corporate employment and general academic successes are concerned.

I have commenced this article with a tribute to black women in order to shed light on the fact that their many attributes have kept the family together during its many tribulations.

We have come to know the adage "it takes a village to raise a child" and it is remarkable that black women were always instrumental in this early post-colonial phenomenon. It was the black woman, who had come to understand that the colonial system had effectively made demands on the black man that rendered him, at times, incapable of performing as the head of the family.

The Jamaican society, by virtue of slavery and colonization, has been pervaded with matriarchal families long before the advent of Americanization. A matriarchal family refers to one with a mother as the most influential element. This kind of family should not be seen simply as a broken nuclear family but as a

EDITORIAL

The term "it's déjà vu all over again" seems so appropriate at this time maybe with a few differences. It seems like just yesterday that we were in the throes of various elections Municipal, Provincial, Federal and locally within the Jamaican Canadian Association. During those many months of campaigning by the various aspirants, it seemed like it would never end. However, by the end of last year, there were across-the-board changes at all levels, with new faces representing the choices of the various constituents.

Here we are again on the cusp of another JCA election and the daily possibility of a federal election. It seems like federally we are walking a tightrope and at any moment if we simply looked down, the whole thing could come crashing down. With the walk across the floor in recent weeks and the PEI results in favour of the government, it seems we may be spared another trip to the ballot box at least in the immediate future.

Not so at the JCA, the ballots are being prepared and the campaigning is in full swing. So much can change in so short a time. It is once again time to vote in another slate of Board members and the race is on. For the positions of Vice President, Public Relations Chair, Membership Chair, Building Committee Chair and Treasurer. New to the slate this year is the position of Women's Committee Chair. Prior to this, the Women's Committee stood on its own and did not work under the full JCA Board mandate. The Committee however has played an integral role within the JCA and has helped to steer the JCA on its successful course over these many years. The members of the Committee decided that it was time to have full voting rights and privileges and the general membership approved it at the Annual General Meeting held in May 2004. This in essence will create a larger Board.

As the JCA constituents go to the "polls" in a few weeks time, it is necessary that all those who aspire to be Board members keep in mind the fact that as a Board member, all the responsibilities of the Association automatically becomes "your" responsibility as well. It is important to be prepared to stand up for your convictions in order to support the vision of the association as well as to help create positive change within the community. It should not be considered a job for the faint of heart as it will never be possible to please all members of the competing interests, but it is important to remember that a united voice must be presented in order to effect change.

Last year as the rash of changes took place, right in this column this statement was made; "With all the changes, each new leader is being watched keenly and judged daily by their constituents as to their ability to lead and willingness to engage others and make a difference. It is important that constituents play their part and support our leaders in an effort to ensure success for all. We are reminded that Change is Constant!" It bears repeating. To all those who have decided to serve the community through the JCA's Board, we thank you all and wish you success.

Youth Affairs Committee Report

Submitted by:
The JCA's Youth Affairs Committee

Expanding and developing community connections and partnerships has been an on-going goal for the JCA's Youth Affairs Committee. YAC members have been active in the last few months attending various events and lending support to numerous community initiatives.

Highlights of YAC's recent activities include:

2nd Annual Jumping the Broom African-Canadian Bridal Show

During the weekend of April 2nd and 3rd, YAC members attended the illustrious bridal show and also assisted with ticket sales whereby a percentage of the sales were donated to YAC.

"I KNOW I CAN" High School Conference

YAC supported the University of Toronto Black Student Association's (BSA) annual High School Conference on April 14th. The BSA invited YAC to participate in the annual conference that is designed to encourage black students to stay in school and pursue post-secondary education. YAC members joined the conference's panel session, offering advice on preparing for post-secondary education. They also shared personal experiences regarding their careers and provided insight on life in the working world.

Spelling Bee of Canada 2005

The JCA hosted the North York Chapter of the 2005 Spelling Bee competition on May 1st. Education

Chair Sylvanus Thompson, served as the Chapter President and spearheaded the volunteer team which included several YAC members. In the weeks leading up to the competition, the volunteer team dedicated much time and effort in preparing the students through coaching sessions and mock spelling bees. The prep work paid off as the students displayed confidence and poise during the intense pressure of the competition.

YAC's growing outreach will also extend to other JCA Committees. YAC is currently working on a social event with the Senior's Committee slated for June. The event will be a celebration of Caribbean culture and traditions. Stay tuned for more details. You may contact YAC at 416-746-5772 x 422 or youthaffairs@jcassoc.org. We would love to hear from you!

situation forged by struggles and hardships. During slavery and colonial times, some West Indian females had to successfully run the family in the absence of West Indian men who were marginalized by the governing system.

It was the black woman who retained strong links with her relatives who gave her both economic and emotional support. By dispersing her loyalties and by clinging especially to the unbreakable sibling ties with her brothers, the black woman increased her chances of sustaining her children and household. This I will refer to as the extended family. In poverty, this was a very effective strategy that created the "village" or communal concept.

In a situation where children were known to, and loved by many adults in a neighborhood, the likelihood of kids falling into mischievous was quite low. Children were not only accountable or answerable to their immediate families but would face the wrath of the community should they stray. This is something that is absent from our current Canadian situation.

If colonialism can be seen as that which divided the black village, then the idea that we should only have nuclear families (this family consists of a husband, wife and their immature offspring) and not extended families, is the new colonial power.

The supposed harmful effects of the matriarchal family on the children are far from proven. From several analyses in the USA, we have seen where the female-headed family structure has not yet proven harmful, even for boys who grow up in it. Here I am not suggesting that the father should not have a role in the lives of the children. What I am suggesting is that from a West Indian perspective, greater influence on the part of the black woman has always led to a greater sense of community, less violence and greater prosperity for the family. Notwithstanding, both parents should be involved in the lives of the children.

The present situation where the Toronto milieu is laden with black-on-black violence tells the grim story of the break-down of the extended black family that is usually propagated by the black female.

People of African ancestry are seemingly thinking that they should not be overly concerned about other people's children or the community. Perhaps the haste to acquire personal wealth in order to seem more prosperous than the neighbor has brought about a situation where we have cut ourselves off from the community.

Submitted by the JCA Women's Committee

Salutation to The Women's Committee Chairperson Pam Powell

Pam Powell has served as Chair of the Women's Committee since 1992.

A very pertinent question might be: "Why has she chaired the Committee for so many years"?

The Women's Committee was not a Standing Committee of the JCA until 2004. Powell gave committee members the opportunity to elect a new chair every two years but the committee collectively asserted that "if it was not broken there was no need for it to be fixed", which meant they had an exceptional chairperson in Miss Powell, and would not seek a change.

As Chair, Pam's leadership and communication skills demonstrate that she is a team player and not a dictator. Decisions are made with input from all Committee Members present. She keeps the group on track, working within the committee's mission statement, action plan, and the JCA's Constitution.

Powell is indeed a tireless worker who uses tact and diplomacy in sticking with any task at hand and getting committee members to achieve their aims.

As chairperson, Powell can be

Powell was a member of the Committee that produced the video "Violent Night" which deals with the many issues of violence in the home, and how it affects Black and Caribbean households. She also chaired the Committee that produced the 40th Anniversary Video "The Jamaican Canadian Association, its Founders, its Legacy, 40 Years of Caring and Sharing".

Powell's activities are not confined only to the Black and Caribbean communities as her volunteer work spans the Greater Toronto area. She has been Volunteer Counsellor with Planned Parenthood of Toronto since 1996, and a member of the Program Services Committee of the Alzheimer's Society of Metropolitan Toronto for over 10 years. She is also an active member of the Women's Intercultural Network.

Powell is the recipient of several volunteer awards including the Ministry of Citizenship & Immigration's Outstanding Achievement Award 2003.

For over sixteen years, she has given much of herself to the Women's Committee during her tenure, and continues to do so.

We thank you for your great leadership, dedication and commitment.

Powell was a member of the Committee that produced proud of the quality of the Committee's activities and its achievements. Here is a partial list of her achievements:

Under Powell's leadership, the Women's Committee organized the first Health Fair for Black Women, Provincially and Internationally. The Committee spearheaded the "Black Women's Coalition" and participated in the World March of Women - 2000 Rally in Ottawa on Poverty and Violence Against Women. She also coordinates the annual "Women Recognizing Women" event in celebration of International Women's Day, whereby the Committee recognizes the women of JCA for their contribution to the Organization and the Community.

WALK-A-THON NEWS AND HIGHLIGHTS

I am pleased to announce that once again our Annual Walk-A-Thon was a success. We were very fortunate to have a cool, but at least sunny morning instead of having the rainy day that was expected. Members of the Saturday Morning Tutorial did a wonderful job of leading the approximately 75 participants in warming up exercises before the walk. There were plenty of patties, water, juice and Popsicles to go around.

Our sincere thanks to all committee members, other JCA volunteers and friends who helped to make this year's walk a success. A special thank you goes out to our Fundraising Chair- Mr. Richard Banton for providing us with great ideas, passion and inspiration. Our congratulations to the following top 3 Prizewinners for raising the most amount of revenue:

- 1st Place: Mrs. Fay Conville, $975.00
- 2nd Place: Ms. Sharon Wynter, $530.00
- 3rd Place: Ms. Daphne Bailey, $480.00

When all the pledges are in, it is projected that we will collect approximately $20,000.00. We would also like to thank all of our sponsors who demonstrates much needed public support for our organization and for the programs & services we provide.

We look forward to seeing you all next year.

Winter is over! Let us enjoy spring while looking forward to summer. Having spent some of the bitter winter in Jamaica, the summer will not be a day too early! I need not tell you that Jamaica is a good place to be at all times, especially at wintertime.

Jamaica is also a good place to save your money. The returns are very good. In Canada you get less than 2% on your savings while in Jamaica the range is up to 15%. It is not difficult to become a millionaire down there in a short space of time.

You should be aware that the tax you pay on the accrued interest varies depending on the country in which you reside. Residents of Canada pay 15% withholding tax, the United States and England is about 12 percent, while residents of Jamaica pay 25%. This concession does not happen automatically, an application has to be submitted to Inland Revenue at 116 East Street, Kingston. If you have an account there you should submit an application for the concession as your savings could be substantial.

I would like to use this medium to congratulate three persons for their achievements; first is Toronto Police Staff Superintendent Bill Blair who
